We believe the purpose of education in our school is:

To create well rounded, thoughtful, happy individuals, who are effective contributors to the school community and will become successful citizens of the future.

It should inspire pupils by “the lighting of a fire”, to become independent, inquisitive lifelong learners, ready to tackle the next phase of their education.

- To nurture pupils by identifying and supporting their individual talents, building self-esteem and developing resilience and perseverance.
- To enable them to explore their own lines of enquiry, make links across their learning and experience this in meaningful contexts, discovering for themselves.
- To achieve – be the best they can be, whatever their starting point in life.

Our curriculum achieves this through:

... providing learning opportunities developed through our supportive ethos which is inclusive of all. This is centred around a broad and balanced curriculum that develops pupils understanding by building their knowledge and skills in a thematic context. It is designed around the concept of nurture and exploration, developing their self-esteem, confidence and resilience, giving them building blocks to a better future. Our curriculum promotes:

- A balance of knowledge and skills
- Hands on practical learning opportunities.
- Pupil engagement facilitating high aspirations by utilising “stunning starts” - to capture the children and ignite curiosity and “fab finishes”.

- A range of enrichment opportunities, developing lifelong skills.
- Strong pupils voice, developing a thirst for knowledge through their own lines of enquiry.
