

Let's Remember

That we use timelines to order things. We can use personal timelines and historical timelines.

Exploration has made the modern world like it is today. Many inventions and new things came from exploring.

I Need to Know...

That my family has important toys that are handed down. They may not be replaceable if they are lost.

The toys that Victorian children played with are different to modern toys. They were made from different materials.

Each era has had its own kind of toys. Toys are no longer made using traditional methods. Often, they are not made of traditional materials.

Let's Explore

How toys changed in different eras.

Were the toys used to play games children no longer play today?

What would a Victorian child think if they could play with the toys
